The Jug Handle is widely known in the tri-state area for their wings. These are breaded and sauced style wings. They have all the usual flavors and a version of super hot wings. They are known for their hot wings but we really liked their garlic wings and their burger was probably the best thing we had while there.

The Ricardo comes with bacon, guacamole, and crumbled blue cheese. This 10 ounce beast was wonderful, with the mix of cool guacamole and strong blue cheese. The burger, larger in circumference (sorry, I am a math teacher) than it was thick, was juicy and the bacon, as it often does, topped everything off nicely.

We also devoured the Gravy Fries, fries deliciously covered in mozzarella cheese and brown gravy.
